

ABSTRACT

This invention comprises a method of inhibiting tumor growth in tumors having growth factor receptors comprising administering, about simultaneously, antibodies to the target growth factor receptors, at least one chemotherapeutic agent and radiation therapy.